Basement / Home Protection Leak Detection Packages

Water leak detection made simple with a basement package from Envirotech Alarms. Everything you need to protect against water leaks, minimising the risk of property damage and loss of water. These reliable, easy to install alarms offer peace of mind and can save you money by minimising the escape of water.

The basement / home protection package uses a sensor tape that when touched by water will trigger an alarm. Each package includes a LeakStop alarm panel, which has an audible alarm and a red flashing light when a leak occurs. There is an optional valve that automatically closes and shuts off the water on detection of a leak (other valves sizes are available). This prevents further loss of water as well as minimises the possible damage the escaping water might do. Connection cables for the valve and to connect the sensor tape come as part of the package, so there's no need to find any additional materials when it comes to installation. The LeakStop alarm panel has a handy test button, useful for periodic maintenance testing and a mute button which will silence the sounder whilst at the same time leaving the red alarm light flashing. There is a volt free relay contact that can be used to connect an external device, such as an SMS text dialler.
